Pitching in can save big bucks

By general consensus around the town office, the most expensive item in Bethel's future is a replacement for the town landfill. By trucking the town's trash to some far off landfill, and then paying a tipping fee at the landfill. Or joining a waste incineration group, and paying for hauling to, as well as a tipping fee at, the incinerator. In either case, the cost runs between $100 and $150 per ton, just to get rid of household trash and papers—which is many times over the cost of running the town landfill.

According to Town Manager Rodney Lynch, the landfill is filling up more rapidly than he had originally estimated. He now envisions a remaining lifespan of just two to three years for this extremely valuable resource.

However, there is a way for Bethel citizens to extend the life of the landfill. That is by utilizing the newly opened paper recycling shed. The shed was not the idea of town officials, but rather the idea of a social service agency in Rumford. The Adult Activity Center, which serves developmentally retarded adults, built the shed and will haul off the papers deposited there—selling them in order to pay salaries to the agency's employee/citizens.

While the town will not profit from the sale of the papers left in the recycling shed, the town will profit very nicely from having less trash filling up the landfill. Every week of extra life that can be squeezed from the landfill means a delay in the inevitable tax increase that will be necessary to haul the town's trash to far-off points.

Save yourself some money. Save the town some money. Use the paper recycling shed.

Soon someone will be killed

The Sunday River road last Sunday was like bumper cars at the county fair—a number of car wrecks, one serious collision, and a few spinouts. All of the accidents and near-misses were near the intersection of the road and the town of Bethel.

If a driver is unfamiliar with the curve, the car is well into the curve before the driver notices that the reverse banking of the curve is pulling the car into the opposite lane. The problem is made more acute on slippery pavement—and Sunday morning was particularly slippery. Bethel officials have hemmed and hawed about the curve for years, and done nothing. When someone is killed in a car wreck on the curve, the Bethel officials, as well as the ill-fated driver, will be the ones responsible.

At the very least, Bethel officials should get danger signs put up at both ends of the curve. At very best, Bethel officials should convince the state to re-design and rebuild the curve.

And waiting until next week to take action may be too late. bfw

Sen. Bill Cohen says:

"Our government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. For good or for ill, it teaches the whole people by its example. Crime is contagious. If the government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for the law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites every man to become a lawbreaker."

These words, penned a half-century ago, came from Justice Louis Brandeis. Today they appear in a significant spot in the report of Congress' Iran-Contra investigation. The executive summary, released from a "barrel to hell" brand message.

As a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, I've been involved for more than a year in the investigation of the sorry tale of deceit, confusion, and disarray at the highest levels of our government. It is a story of hidden motives, secret agendas and deceptive maneuvers orchestrated from inside the White House that violated the spirit, if not the letter, of the law.

As a nation, we should be sadder for the deception. But we are wiser, too, because it showed up the weaknesses in our system and gave us a chance to correct them. It is a story that is a warning to all of us.

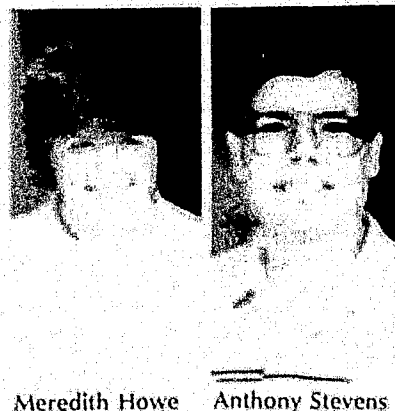

It is clear that this episode was a significant departure from the Constitution, the processes that normally control the operations of government. It happened in the realm of national security, where secrecy is a tool of the trade, and in this case, the secrecy reinforced our ability to do what we needed to do.

Our committee report catalogues for history the system failures uncovered by our hearings. And it goes much further than last February's Tower Board report on spelling out the deficiencies.

The Tower report depicted a President who was disengaged. This report shows a President who was far more engaged, though not as much as he should have been. He was very concerned about

HAZEL M. STROUT

Funeral services for Hazel M. Strout were held last Wednesday morning, Nov. 25, at the Andrews Funeral Home, with Joseph Perham officiating. She died unexpectedly at her home in Bryant Pond on Sunday, Nov. 22, 1987. She was 85 at the time of her death.

She was born at Guthrie Center, Iowa, Feb. 22, 1902, the daughter of Frank and Lily Belle Fuller Lane. She attended schools in Iowa and South Dakota.

She was married to William J. Strout, of Mechanic Falls, in Phillips, S.D., on Sept. 9, 1920. Mr. Strout died May 17, 1972.

She had worked on ranches in South Dakota until 1931, when she and her family moved to Mechanic Falls. In 1937 they moved to a small farm in South Woodstock. Following its sale in 1937, they moved to Bryant Pond.

She had been employed by Ekco Co., in Locke Mills, Penley Brothers, in West Paris, and the B.E. Cole Shoe Co., in Newry. She had also worked as a cook for nine years at the Maine Conservation School, on Lake Umbagog, in the 1930s.

She was a member of the Grace Lutheran Church in Lewiston and a life member of the Jefferson Chapter, O.E.S., of Bryant Pond. She was a member of the Willam Workers of South Woodstock.

She is survived by a daughter, Nina Belle McMillin, of Bethel; two sons, Roger L. and Harry ("Rusty"), both of Bryant Pond; a sister, Ruby Heber, of Braintree, Mass.; a granddaughter, Patricia Whitman, of Bryant Pond, whom she raised from birth; and a foster daughter, Rose Batchelder, of Hanover.

Local fire victims get by with help from friends

One local family last month reached a major milestone in their efforts to rebuild their lives after a fire had wiped out their home and possessions. But as they did so another family was beginning that long and disheartening journey.

After nearly a year-and-a-half of work, Lucy Rogers, Paul Hausman and their two children were back in their own home—one they built themselves next to the ruins of their hilltop home in Albany, which had been destroyed by lightning and fire in July 1986.

The fire wiped out their home, which they had spent 12 years building, and all their possessions. There was no insurance.

"We literally had only the shirts on our backs," Mr. Hausman said.

For two months after the fire the two adults and their children, Phoebe, now 11, and Amos, 8, lived in tents.

"It was summer, so it wasn't so bad for the kids," Mr. Hausman said.

He credits friends and neighbors with making it possible for the family to get back on its feet. "We went to North Conway to get tents and sleeping bags," he said, "and by the time that we got back there was already a truck in the yard loaded with pots and pans."

Many people donated clothing and household items: the Albany Congregational Church raised money for the family, and friends and neighbors organized a work party to help with the rebuilding.

"People were very generous," Mr. Hausman said.

One of the most difficult parts of the experience was accepting the fact that something that had taken so long to build was now gone. Mr. Hausman said, "that the 12 years of work we had put into that house were down the tubes."

Even the tools used to build the house were gone, as were Mrs. Rogers' sewing and weaving equipment.

Just reassembling the tools needed to begin again was a challenge, he said, "but you just have to keep plugging away."

For Kenneth and James Batchelder and their daughters—Sue, 7, and Amber, 4—the rebuilding has just begun.

Last Tuesday a fire started by a leaking furnace gutted their trailer on Rt. 26 in Locke Mills.

The town-owned Fire Department arrived within six minutes of being called. Mr. Batchelder said, but the oil-fueled fire

THIS SUBARU, owned by Mike Kelly, of Viking Village, Newry, got turned around after skidding into an oncoming Suba Sunday morning on the Sunday River Road. The Subaru was towed to Wilson's Garage, in Bethel, where it was declared a total loss. It had lost one door (foreground), one wheel, and was bashed in on the driver's side. Occupants of both cars were slightly injured, with one having to be taken to the hospital. The accident occurred just a short time after another accident in the same area—near the reversed bank, right hand curve. In addition, there were a number of skid-outs.

FORMER TELSTAR STUDENT HONORED AT BLAINE HOUSE

Emily Keyes, daughter of Michelle Farrar Keyes, Naples, as a winner of the Maine PTA Reflections Student Art Program. She was to be honored today (Dec. 2) by Gov. John McKernan, at a tea at the Blaine House. Emily is a former Telstar student.

She was already spreading too fast to be controlled.

No one was injured in the fire, but all the contents of the trailer went up with it.

"I'm just grateful that no one was hurt, that the 12 years of work we had put into that house were down the tubes."

Insurance will make the Batchelders' rebuilding a great deal easier than it was for the Hausman-Rogers family. The trailer and its contents were covered "as soon as I get approval from the insurance company, I'm going to clear the lot and put another trailer in," Mr. Batchelder said.

And friends and neighbors have contributed clothing and household items.

"We need beds and bureaus for the girls and things like utensils," he said, "but at least we're all fully clothed again." For the time being they are staying with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Olga Morgan.

Deadline Dec. 31 for Newry warrant articles

The Newry selectmen advise citizens and town committees that the deadline for submitting articles for the Town Meeting warrant is Dec. 31. The selectmen are gathering proposed articles, as well as other materials for the town report.

Yesterday (Tuesday) the selectmen met with computer consultant Jonathan Smith who recommended the town purchase a computer system from E.W. Whittier Co., of South Paris. A representative from the company will meet with the selectmen next week to discuss it further.

The selectmen also discussed the need for a streetlight in front of the municipal building.

STATE GOP LEADER

MAKES STUDY TRIP ABROAD
Maine GOP Executive Director

Richard Bennett, 24, of Yarmouth, was selected by the American Council of Young Political Leaders as a delegate on a Study Tour in Turkey and Greece. He is the grandson of Donald and Elsie Bennett, of Locke Mills, and Arthur and Laura Farrington, of Bryant Pond.

The study tour visited Turkey and Greece, as well as Washington, D.C., where the trip began. "This experience has given me a much deeper understanding of Greece, Turkey and the NATO alliance, which I hope to be able to share with others in Maine," Mr. Bennett said.

The delegation, of which Mr. Bennett was the youngest member, was composed of 10 young political leaders and government officials—five Democrats and five Republicans, all under the age of 41.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Following is a description of Austrian Empress Maria Theresa:

"She was a handsome woman and a great one who understood perfectly how to make an imperial image. She could make a splendid gown, a huge diamond sparkling on her forehead." She gave the impression of being in itself a considerable talent.

Donny McGowan

At the Society meeting on the Conservation Camp we learned that the same building there was probably built about 1822 and that 1961 was the first year classes ran in the stone house. The camp is governed by an 18-member board.

Kay McAllister gave a Woodstock banner to the museum.

Our December meeting will be at the new school. It will feature a potluck supper at 6 p.m. and a meeting with an exchange of gifts at 7 p.m.
